Allowable Subject Matter

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

After extensive searching and analysis of the best prior art in light of Applicant's claimed invention, Examiner agrees with Applicant finding specifically that the prior art alone or in combination does not teach Applicant's claimed invention, as amended on 30 May 2006. Specifically, Applicant has amended the claims to specifically enumerate, "a received folder and a friends folder in a root of the home folder, the received folder containing folders that represent folders and files that have been shared with the user, and the friends folder containing objects of the user and communities that are of interest to the user", as clearly defined within Applicant's specification on p.5. Additionally, Examiner is persuaded that per Applicant's specification and arguments made in the Reply Brief dated 3 May 2005, an access control list provides the names of users that may access the file, not the names of users that have shared a folder with the current user, per Applicant's received folder.

Applicant has additionally amended the claims to specifically recite, "creating, by the application, an auxiliary class containing a shared path attribute, a received path attribute, and a friends attribute, wherein the shared path attribute is used to quickly identify other users that the folders and the files in the home folder have been shared with, the received path attribute is used to store names of the other users and a path of the folders and the files that have been shared with the user and to populate the received folder, and the friends attribute is used to allow the user and other users with common interests to share folders and files of the common interest", as clearly defined within Applicant's specification on p.5. Additionally, after extensive searching and consideration, Examiner was unable to find the particular method, (creation of an auxiliary class containing the specific shared path, received path, and friends path attributes), and order in which Applicant's invention functions, (as noted within Claims 8 & 28) or combine the same without the use of improper hindsight reasoning.

Further updated search and consideration did not reveal any other art that alone or in combination would render Applicant's claimed invention unpatentable. Thus, as currently amended, Applicant's claims are allowable.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
